Generalities

The British Offshore Racing Licenses Ltd is an independent license issuer for offshore powerboat racing within the UK.

SECTION 1 - General

Precedence of rules

All members are advised that the rules are specifically for the purposes of fair competition. Any safety rules are made purely as a minimum standard to be applied; therefore all competitors shall recognise that their own risk assessment and application of additional recommendations is to be carried out prior to any competition.

For clarity the laws pertaining to Safety of Life at Sea (SOLAS) and The International Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea (COLREGS) take precedence at all times over any rule herein or race instruction issued by the organiser.

Similarly, any Local Legislation as published by Harbour, Foreshore or similar authorities will take precedence over any rule herein, or race instruction issued by the organiser.

In recognition should a competitor suffer a competitive loss from adhering to the above, an application to adjust their final position may be made to the race organisers, in search of restitution.

Rules herein may be amended for local conditions by race instruction and in that case will take precedence.
